

The Curious Bicycle

Two wheels
standing by the window
Waiting in silence
for someone or something
As if a curious beast staring down a golden hollow With its eyes fixed with determination as the unassailable might of curiosity
The two wheels with a shiny metal body were standing by the window Though it should have been a customary sight
It's rather uniquely curious Like petite hands
Branching out to discover
Two wheel s
standing by the window
Waiting in silence
for someone or something

Arya Mukherjee, from Surat Gujarat, is twelve years old and studies in Delhi Public School Tapi.

The Pangolin Review; Issue 7, 8 November 2018

